

The Miracle Apples, Banana, Nectarines, and Pears of Sunday 19 July 2015

Introduction

There was one banana, two apples (one Braeburn, the other a Pink Lady), two nectarines and two pears (Dutch Conference) that displayed the Name of Allah Most High on their surface. Almost all of the fruit was bought from the Tesco Express store on Withington Road, Whalley Range, Manchester, UK on Saturday 18 July 2015, with the exception of the banana that was from a previous batch of fruit bought from the same store a few days earlier.

I decided to examine the fruit just in case there was the Name of Allah or the name of Muhammad S.A.W. on any fruit. I had a pleasant surprise to find the Name of Allah S.W.T. on these fruits.

A strange incident occurred while I was photographing the fruits for the best angles: for two photographs, the shots were taken ‘automatically’; in other words, my index finger moved by itself and clicked the camera widget to take the photographs – and I noticed immediately afterwards that the angle was perfect both times. Unfortunately, there was so much work to do to take all the photographs that these automatic shots have been mingled with the rest and now they cannot be specified.

I take a ‘squad’ of photographs and then select the ‘team’ – the photographs in which the Name of Allah appears clearest. And, in the first instance, I only take the photograph when I can make out the Name of Allah. I come across so many miracles because I have trained my eyes to work out the format and location of Allah’s Name on the fruits. To the unaccustomed eye, the Name may not be easily discernible.

For the past few days, I have been working very hard promoting the Miracles Site <http://dr-umar-azam-islamicmiracles.weebly.com> to Islamic organisations in: UK, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, Nigeria, Somalia, Tanzania, Pakistan, the USA, Latin America and Canada (all parts of the world will be covered eventually). So I feel that finding so many Miracles on the fruits is just reward for my efforts. Duas (prayers) will gbe read over the fruits before consumption.
